THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

A National Convention of the Republican party will meet at Chicago, Wednesday, the 14th of June next, for the nomination of candidates to be supported for President and Vice President at the next election.

Republicans, and all who will co-operate with them in supporting the nominees of the party, are invited to choose two delegates from each Congressional District, four at large from each State, two from each Territory, and two from the District of Columbia, to represent them in the Convention.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

ROOMS OF THE REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE,
MILWAUKEE, FEBRUARY 15, 1880.

A State Convention of delegates representing the Republican party of Wisconsin, and of all who will co-operate with them in supporting the nominees of the party, is hereby called to meet at the Capitol in Madison, at twelve o'clock P. M., on Wednesday, May 6th, 1880, for the purpose of placing in nomination an electoral ticket of ten electors to be supported by the party at the next Presidential election, and also to select twenty delegates, (two from each Congressional district and four from the State at large), to represent the Republican party of Wisconsin in the National Republican Convention, which is called to meet at Chicago on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1880, and to transact such other business as may be deemed necessary.

Each Senate and Assembly District is entitled to two delegates in the Convention.

The Government 4 per cent has taken another rise, and on Monday reached 107. The 4 1/2 per cent was sold for 109 1/2. The abundance of money which can not be invested in anything more profitable than bonds at four per cent, is the cause of the sudden and remarkable rise.

The anti-Tilden papers do a good deal of talking about the old man's "feebleness," but it is noticeable that he still dashes among the stock brokers, sells out two or three railways now and then, plays some financial strategy on his nearest friends, and makes several millions. They will have to coin another word for "feebleness."

It is not improbable that the nomination for Vice President will go a beggar. As yet no name has been connected with that office, and it is very doubtful if any of the party leaders can be induced to accept the position. A man of ambition, of energy, and of ability, does not want it, for it is a sure road that leads to oblivion. It is a sort of superfluous office, where men become lost to public view, and where they have four years of discontentment. All who have tried it, say they would much rather be in the Senate, or even on the floor of the House than in the Vice President's chair. Hamlin, Colfax, and Wilson, experienced deep regrets that they ever accepted the nomination, and Mr. Wheeler says he made a great mistake when he left the House for the Vice Presidency.

Mr. John W. Mackay, of California, is immensely wealthy. His income is even more than princely. It runs up into the millions annually. Hardly twenty years ago, he came from Ireland a poor man. He knows what it is to be poor in that country. He went to California, engaged in mining, and fortunately, and almost instantly, he leaped from poverty to mighty affluence. To-day he is among the richest of the California millionaires, and has more money than he can ever use, or more than he can invest profitably. He now lives surrounded by as much dazzling splendor as any crowned head of Europe, and yet when he was appealed to for a subscription for the suffering in Ireland, he gave ten thousand dollars only, when men, who are not Irish by birth or descent, and who are not worth one-tenth what Mackay is, have given five times more than he. This is a kind of generosity which does no credit to John Mackay.

THE DEMOCRATIC DILEMMA.

The Democratic party is not altogether at ease with regard to Samuel J. Tilden and the mortgage he holds on the party. It is claimed by some that he is out of the Presidential race for 1880, and for that matter for all future time, but it is evident that Mr. Tilden will appear on the scene when the time comes for the Convention to meet. He does not propose to let the party off as easily as some imagine, and though he is quiet and seemingly unconcerned, he has a sharp eye on the object of his ambition, and if he does not get the nomination, he will not quit the contest without first giving the party a good deal of trouble. There is no disguising the fact that very many of the best Democrats considered Tilden a bitter pill in 1876. He purchased his nomination, and when he failed of an election, his next move was to attempt to purchase the electoral vote of Oregon and Florida. As an intriguer he is the most skillful in the party, and in low cunning and selfishness, he hardly has a peer in the country. The Democratic party, or at least the managers, have learned these facts, and now that he is a candidate for renomination, the question with them is "What is to be done about it?" It is certain that he is too heavy a load for the party, and for this reason there is not a prominent Democratic paper in the city of New York where Tilden lives and is best known, that supports him for a nomination.

The fact that Mr. Tilden is dishonest and

QUADRUPLE MURDER.

Terrible Murder Brought to Light in Bainbridge, Pennsylvania.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 16.—The vicinity of Bainbridge, Lancaster county, and the country for miles around has been startled by a horrible tragedy, involving the death of four persons. In a small frame house abutting a public road, about a quarter of a mile from the Pennsylvania railroad, there resided Charles Lane and family, consisting of his wife and three children. On Saturday a gentleman living in the neighborhood suspected that something had occurred in the house, as he had not seen any of the inmates for several days. He instituted an investigation, and through the window discovered a scene, the wife of the late Charles Lane, a girl aged about five years, and a boy two years old, lying on a rudely constructed cot near by. The doors of the building connected with the outside were found locked. One of them was burst open, and the sleeping room thoroughly examined. Lane, who was six feet five inches tall, lay diagonally across the bed, with one arm raised. His wife occupied a crouched position, with her skull crushed and neck broken from the head to below the breast. Her body presented a livid appearance. She held in her arms a child about 3 months old, which had evidently been smothered. The face of the little one was badly under the cover and was pressed tightly against the face of its mother, both of which were flattened out by the contact. The bodies of the mother and child were in an advanced state of decomposition. In an improvised bed was the dead body of the little girl, her neck broken and presenting an appearance indicating that she had been dead some time. Alongside of her was a little brother, who was on his hands and knees, his feet and portions of his legs being badly frozen. He was protected by no clothing, and when the discovery of the tragedy was made by outside parties, he exclaimed: "Hush, hush, they are sleeping." There was considerable blood on the bed occupied by Lane and his wife, but no evidence of a struggle. As no implements were found about the house with which the woman's skull could have been crushed without leaving a mark, it is supposed that Lane pressed her violently against the rail of the bed. Dr. Weseman, of Bainbridge, made a post-mortem examination of the body of Lane and discovered unmistakable evidence of poison in his stomach, and came to the conclusion that he died from it. Although he made no examination of the body of the little girl, he is convinced that poison had been administered to her; but as her neck was also broken, he is unable to say which caused her death. The mother and child were placed in one coffin, and Lane and his daughter in separate coffins, and all interred in the cemetery in the suburbs of Bainbridge.

Mr. Blaine has, as you say, "brilliant spirit, dash, and energy," but his present attitude and methods are those of the mere politician and not of the statesman.

BLOW OUT.

Appleton Happy Over the Completion of a Railroad.

APPLETON, Feb. 16.—The first train of the Milwaukee & Northern Railroad arrived in Appleton at 6:25 this evening, amid the booming of cannon and the shouts of thousands of citizens assembled at the depot to witness the first arrival over a road that is sure to prove a grand factor in Appleton's future prosperity. The music of brass bands fills the air with general joyousness. Bonfires are burning on the streets. Private residences are illuminated, and public buildings are all ablaze in honor of the auspicious event. Flags are flying all over the city, and everything is enthusiastic. Appleton, soon to be the second city in the State, sends greeting to Milwaukee, the first. Messrs. Finney, Spencer, Malone, Barker, Dutton and other dignitaries of the Central and Northern railroads are in the city. Carriages met them at the depot and they were escorted to the Waverly house by an immense procession, composed of bands of music, fire department, civic societies and thousands of citizens in vehicles and on foot. The distinguished party will remain over night, leaving at eight o'clock to-morrow morning for Milwaukee.

Some Important Measures Disposed of in Both Houses.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, Feb. 17.—In the Assembly this morning the resolution passed ordering Select Committees to report on bills next Monday evening.

Assembly bills were killed to remove clouds from the title of real estate by reason of erroneous tax deeds bills; obliging school districts to build fences and plant shade trees around school houses; requiring school superintendents to be practical teachers and hold second grade certificates; cutting down railroad passenger tariff from four to three cents per mile. A debate arose over the bill forbidding counties to grant railroad aid, the railroad committee having recommended indefinite postponement, and adjournment reached without decision.

SENATE.

In the Senate a number of remonstrances were presented against taxation of church property. The Committee on Charitable Institutions reported in favor of rebuilding the Deaf and Dumb Institute at Delavan at a cost of seventy-two thousand dollars.

The nomination of H. H. Giles a member of the State Board of Charities was confirmed.

Senator Burrows, from the Committee on State Affairs, presented an adverse majority report on the biennial session bill. The report is an exhaustive paper showing greater cost of biennial sessions where tried than annual.

McFetridge will present a minority report on Thursday.

Bills were passed appropriating nineteen thousand and six hundred dollars to the Institute for the Blind; providing for the collection of statistics of pauperism and crime; allowing general Accident Insurance Companies to transact business within the State; authorizing the West Wisconsin Railway to abandon a portion of the line from North Wisconsin Junction to Lake St. Croix.

The Mandamus bill was made a special order for Friday.

FEUD ENDED.

Fatal Ending of a Frontier Feud.

YANKTON, Feb. 16.—Intelligence has just reached this city of a fatal encounter at Brule City, 150 miles up the Missouri, last Friday, by which the notorious Jim Somers and M. Somers killed each other. There was a feud of many years existing between the families, and Friday young Somers and his uncle came together and had an altercation. Jim grabbed a needle gun and shot his nephew through the body. As he fell the latter pulled his revolver and shot his uncle, killing him instantly. The nephew died about an hour afterward, and both were buried next day. Jim Somers is known from Yankton to Bismarck as a swiftest and dangerous man. He had lived in Dakota twenty years, most of the time just outside of civilization. Eleven years ago he shot and crippled for life Sheriff Black, for which he was never arrested.

NO HOPE.

For the Recovery of Cyrus T. Hawley.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 16.—Last evening the physicians in attendance upon Cyrus T. Hawley, who shot himself with a revolver, intentionally, yesterday, were encouraged to believe that there was a chance of recovery, but to-day this hope is dispelled by unfavorable symptoms. The friends of Mr. Hawley are unable to explain the cause that impelled him to the act. His family relations, they say, were pleasant, and his business matters in such shape as to occasion him no trouble. It is known that he frequently drank to excess within the past year or two, and these indulgences may have had the effect to cause a disordered mind. Still, even the fact of his having acquired habits of intemperance is being kept as quiet as possible by the family.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 16.—This evening the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar, in special convocation, shaped the programme to be observed on the occasion of their attendance at the triennial convocation in Chicago on the third Tuesday in August. They resolved that all commanders of the State should unite and attend in one body, under directions of the commandery officers. The Wisconsin representation will, therefore, be from 600 to 800 Sir Knights.

PENNSYLVANIA.

New York, Feb. 17.—The Tribune's canvass among the 2,600 Republican county and township committeemen of Pennsylvania as to their first and second choice for President continued. Senator Blaine's extraordinary lead is still maintained. Yesterday's mail brought 121 responses, of which 100 are for Senator Blaine as a first choice, and eighteen for General Grant as first choice. About one-third of the committeemen have been heard from.

BODY RECOVERED.

LAKE GENÈVE, Wis., Feb. 16.—The body of J. P. Chester, who was drowned in the lake on Saturday, was recovered on Sunday in fifty feet of water, by Will Allen, by means of a hook and line. An inquest was held by Squire Oatman, and a verdict of accidental death rendered. The relatives of the deceased are supposed to reside near Lowell or Boston, Mass.

MARIMON.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16.—Marimon made her debut in this city, opening the opera season to-night in "Sonnambula" to a crowded house, $1,000 better than the opening house of last season. She was frequently recalled by a critical audience, and her success was unquestioned. The advance sale for nine performances is over $10,000.

MILWAUKEE RELIEF.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 16.—The Irish relief committee have raised over $2,400, of which $2,100 has been transmitted to Dublin. It is expected that before the end of another week this sum will be increased to $4,000.

UNREASONABLE.

Action of the House Committee on the Minnesota Contested Election Case.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The unreasonable partisanship of the House Committee on Elections in voting to unseat Washburn, of Minnesota, is attested by the following facts: Washburn was returned to Congress by a majority of over 3,000. In order to exhaust this majority the committee has resorted to various devices. They have thrown out a great many votes on account of alleged bribery, and 2,500 votes have been thrown out because the evidence shows that the ballots in several precincts where a number of votes were cast numbered by the officers of election as they were deposited in the box. But the committee, assuming judicial powers, have assumed this method of voting is unconstitutional, and assigns that reason for knocking off so many of Washburn's majority. Of the committee which thus decides Messrs. Plister, of Kentucky, and Beltzhoover, of Pennsylvania, are members. Mr. Beltzhoover was elected to Congress as a Democrat in a district where every vote was numbered—some twenty-four thousand of them. Plister was elected under the State law, which was passed to intimidate negroes, and which requires a viva voce vote for Congressmen. If the Committee on Elections unseat Washburn on this pretense, they will have to include Beltzhoover and Plister in the resolution in order to maintain that consistency. Both gentlemen named have voted for unseating Washburn on this ground, unimpaired, perhaps, that the same objections they raise invalidate their own title to seats. The Committee on Elections will receive the report of its sub-committee to-morrow, and will vote upon its adoption.

A Famously Rich Woman.

"Gath," in Cincinnati Enquirer.

Some time ago the President of the

Louisville, Nashville & Great Southern

Railroad said that there was a woman owning stock in that railroad who had $25,000,000. I thought over the whole range of women in this country, and failed to drop to any with that amount of money.

I inquired of other persons, and they thought the woman was a myth. But I have understood, within a day or two, that there is really a woman with a fortune of that, or approximately magnitude, though

she is scarcely known to anybody either in financial or social circles.

She is Mrs. Green, the wife of a former American merchant in Cuba, who is himself said to be worth $100,000. This gentleman spends most of his time about the Union Club, New York, while his wife

resides with an invalid son at Bellows

Falls, Vermont.

She derives her fortune from a man known as "Blubber" Robinson, who owned the largest line of whale-ships at

New Bedford, Mass. Mr. Robinson, you will remember, is quite a modern town in

New England, having been settled only ten years before the Revolutionary War.

It took the name of Bedford, because the land was owned by a Mr. Russell, who remembered that Russell was the family name of the Dukes of Bedford. This town grew rich by the discovery of a Quaker

named Ketchum, who persuaded the French and British Governments to let him ship them whale oil out free. Then arose a magnificent whaling business for New

Bedford, which in 1838, had 170 whale ships, employing 4,000 sailors, and which fleet brought 160,000 barrels of whale oil a year.

The men known as "Blubber" Robinson

is said to have had a line of whale ships

numbered 1 to 100, and had extraordinary successes, both on the sea and in the employment of his capital on shore. After the discovery of gold in California the whaling business declined, and during the War of the Rebellion the big New Bedford fleet in the Pacific Ocean was destroyed by one of the worthless Rebel privateers.

Meanwhile it seems that the carefully

treasured wealth of "Blubber" Robinson

passed into the hands of a daughter, educated into an extraordinary passion for penury, and taught that there was but one commandment left to man, and that was to "know the value of money." In the City of Paris, on one occasion Miss Robinson encountered Mr. E. H. Green, and her fortunes were joined. She, however,

kept her own property, both in amount

and management, and understood that

Mr. Green, of New York, her banker is her business agent and makes her investments.

Mr. Green meantime hunts out investments

on his own account.

Mrs. Green is said to have 10,000 shares of stock in the Louisville organization, and considerably more than that in the Houton & Texas Central Railroad. If we will suppose that these 10,000 shares originally cost $40 a share, they have gone up about

1,000,000 in the subsequent rise in stock.

I am not sure that I have the figures correctly in my mind as to the number of shares possessed by this woman. The husband Mr. Green is said to have been originally a man of fine general appearance

and respectable scholarship, but his connection with such a well husbanded for-ture has also made him something of a monomaniac on wealth.

A Fair Offer.

The Voltaic Belt Company, Marshall,

Michigan, will send their Celebrated Elec-

Imitations.

To protect the public against Imitations and Fraud we have cut the word CAPCINE

IN EACH GENUINE BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.

Do not allow some other plaster to be palmed off under the name of Capcine or Capelin, or by similar names, with the assurance that it is the same thing or as good. Bear in mind that the only object such vendor can have is the fact that they can buy imitations at half the price of the genuine, and they hope by this substitution to gain a small additional profit.
